

Before reaching pre-school and school time in their life kids were totally dependent on their parents. As they grow older, other kids and their surroundings exert a greater influence on them and essential values must be passed. Communicate the importance of character, values and personal responsibility will help them to prepare for life. We encourage exemplary behavior and collaboration from older kids happy to lend their hand to younger kids. We give responsibilities and create an environment in which open and honest communication is encouraged. We use every experience as a learning opportunity and we expose your kids to diversity and help to be open-minded to others.
